

On the 27th April 2016 an important email was issued to the Trust's membership.

On behalf of the Trustees and Officers of the North Walsham and Dilham Canal Trust, we are deeply saddened to report that Sue Boulton died unexpectedly on Wednesday 20th April 2016.

Sue was an efficient Membership Secretary for the Trust and combined her organisational skills with a cheerful willingness to treat members as friends. She was always ready to help the Trust, updating our Facebook page, making cakes, taking minutes, camping overnight as security on open weekends and much, much more. Sue had a mischievous sense of humour and often her emails to Trustees included a cheeky comment that made us laugh. We are going to miss her happy smile and companionship.

Sue's death came as a massive shock to her husband Tom, who was a great support to Sue and always considerate of her interest in the canal. Tom regularly accompanied Sue on canal open weekends, helping in many practical ways - often behind the scenes.

As a small but lasting tribute to Sue the Trustees of the North Walsham and Dilham Canal Trust have decided to name our pontoon 'The Sue B'.

Rest in peace our dear friend.

Apologies if you have not received this email and been able to digest this information before it went public. We received quite a few email 'Message Undeliverable' errors.

Members please send your name, address and other contact details to membership@nwdct.org so that we can ensure we have your correct email address. Very many thanks.
